

Greetings from around the world,

Welcome to "ICM + ME Artistry: Three Voices, Three Visions," with nicholas x bent, Renee Lynn, Craig Boehman, and moderator Stephanie Johnson which starts on Saturday, May 18th at 11:00 am Mountain Time (1:00 pm for those on the East Coast, or 10:00 am on the West Coast) via the SFW curated Zoom platform.

Lilo Danielyan will be the Santa Fe Workshops course facilitator. Her job is hosting our Zoom session, answering your technical questions, and keeping us on track. Lilo will email you an invitation with a Zoom link to our session. If you have any questions, you can email Lilo at lilo@santafeworkshops.com.

In preparation for the presentation, we all should take some time to familiarize ourselves on a basic level with Zoom. The more we know about this online setting, the smoother the class will run. Attached is a document from Santa Fe Workshops about using Zoom. Please review it and make a plan to set up a comfortable classroom environment in your home.

In this panel, each presenter will offer a concise 30-minute presentation. This will be followed by a group discussion led by Stephanie, and we'll conclude with an interactive Q&A session.

Below are greetings from Stephanie, your dedicated moderator, along with our esteemed speakers nicholas, Renee, and Craig:

"Hello from Iowa City, Iowa! I'm so excited to have the role of Moderator for the ICM + ME Artistry panel, where you will learn from three amazing creative photographers who are doing beautifully artistic work in the realms of ICM and Multiple Exposure photography. I'm certain you will be inspired by each of these photographic artists and that the discussions will spark new ideas for your own creative toolbox. Thank you so much for joining us for this panel discussion. I look forward to seeing you soon." ~ Stephanie

"warm greetings from the snowy north of ontario, canada, and welcome to ICM and ME Artistry, Three Voices, Three Visions. this inaugural symposium, brought forward by Santa Fe Workshops, presents a dynamic trio of photographic perspectives, those of renee lynn, craig boehman, and myself, nicholas x bent. we will be moderated by stephanie johnson, so really, there will be four perspectives.

i look forward to describing my erratic path through photography and the various techniques i have used to create my monochromatic images. the majority of my work is front end, by which i mean that i use manual settings to push light in order to create strong contrasts, and also to build structure in a subject by generating blur through controlled movements. i also look forward to discovering the unique techniques and perspectives of the panelists." ~ nicholas

"I'm very excited to be part of the upcoming Santa Fe Workshops ICM & ME symposium. I am looking forward to sharing my experiences with the innovative approaches to photography being presented. You'll learn the five key factors I believe are essential in creating artistic imagery. My intention is to inspire others to explore new methods that build on their own creative voice. See you soon!" ~ Renee

"The clock's ticking down to the ICM + ME Artistry panel at Santa Fe Workshops. In my presentation, candid moments and art converge, driven by the mantra close to my heart: "I turn people into art." I've got photography hacks to share with you. Ready to mix things up with us?" ~ Craig

We eagerly anticipate our upcoming gathering and are committed to maximizing every moment. Your punctuality and full engagement are crucial to ensuring a meaningful experience for all involved. We are particularly excited about the opportunity to engage with your questions and explore enriching conversations together.

~ Stephanie, Nicholas, Renee & Craig
